It was a hazy blue and gold afternoon ten thousand feet over the shoreline of placid Lake Michigan. Whenever flying to Chicago, I find myself instinctively scanning northward for any sign of that quaint village they call Berrien Springs. Usually our town is lost in the haze or fog or shimmer of the daylight hours. But this afternoon I saw it, framed like a postcard in the distance: the proud white water tower, the tiny grey spire of Pioneer, the sprawling clusters of red and yellow brick along the edges of the distant green malls. Andrews University, my alma mater twice over. With glowing pride I nudged the passenger beside me, “That’s the university where I live.” I did spare him the school song.

But song or not, Andrews University is where we’ve all lived these past fleeting months. And the fact is there isn’t an aerial vista around that could possibly capture the pulsating life and throbbing potential that have transformed nearly 3000 students and 750 faculty and staff into a global community of higher learning. Look at our faces in this book! Every face a unique his-story or her-story, brought together to make or at least shape history. Eighty nations of the planet have sent their ambassadors of young life to this campus. The brightest and best, we keep congratulating ourselves.

But When “Our Dear AU” has sung itself out, what difference will this campus of blue and gold really make on this planet of blue and green spinning on its crooked cosmic axis? How different will life be around this earth because another five hundred pieces of parchment, stamped with two signatures and one degree title, have been handed to yet another class and generation?

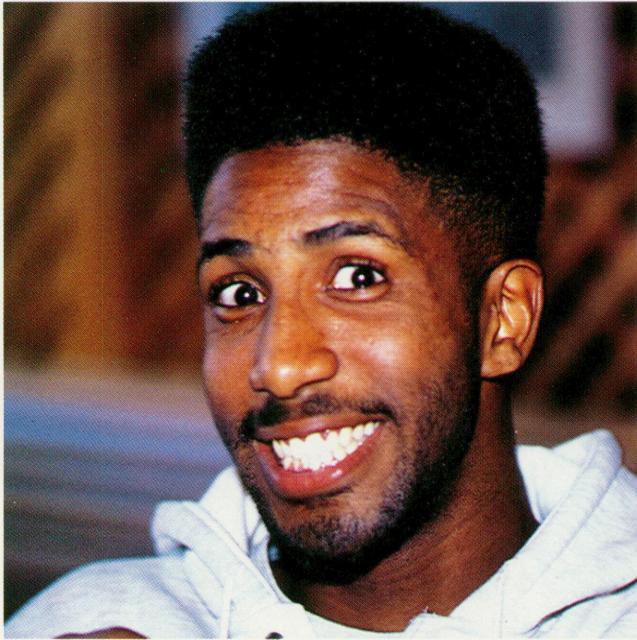

Higher learning. But from the aerial view of eternity how high is higher? Could it be that in the end all learning must be measured by the radical summons of the Man of Calvary? Jesus called the Christ, Who walked our sidewalks and hallways this past year. In the end could it be that what we do with Him, what we do for him will be what defines the lasting heights of our higher learning here? “If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me. For those who want to save their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will save it” (Mark 8:34, 34 NRSV).

Because the cross is the most eloquent declaration that this final human civilization matters to God. So much so that He sent His Son. And you. Into the world. That whoever believes will not perish. But have life. Ad infinitum. All because God sent Jesus and you beyond these edges of blue and gold into the edge of the world’s last night.

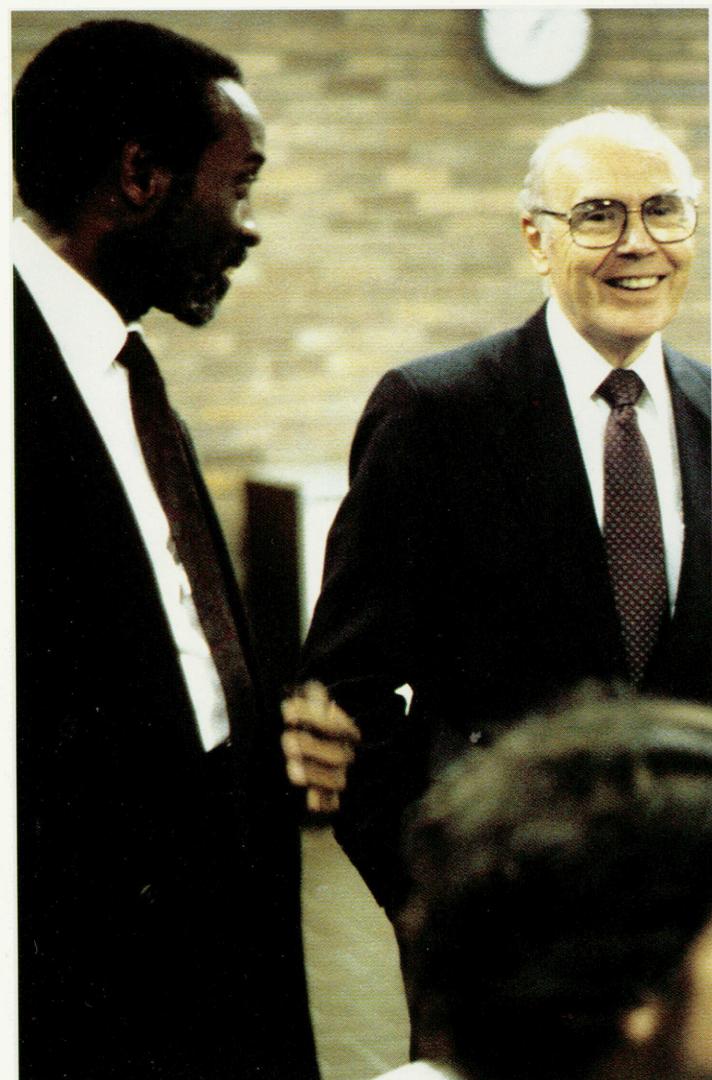

Knowing that God cared enough to send the very best makes this collection of all of us a monumental step of faith, doesn’t it?

The label usually attached to this section of the Cardinal is “Student Life — Black & White.” This year, however, we would like to correct that:

*A Didactic Little Poem
on the Virtues of Sameness*

Four little school children, all in a row
Four little suits, grey with medals fastened on Six little shoes with their right lace over left
One little sign renting space in the snow.

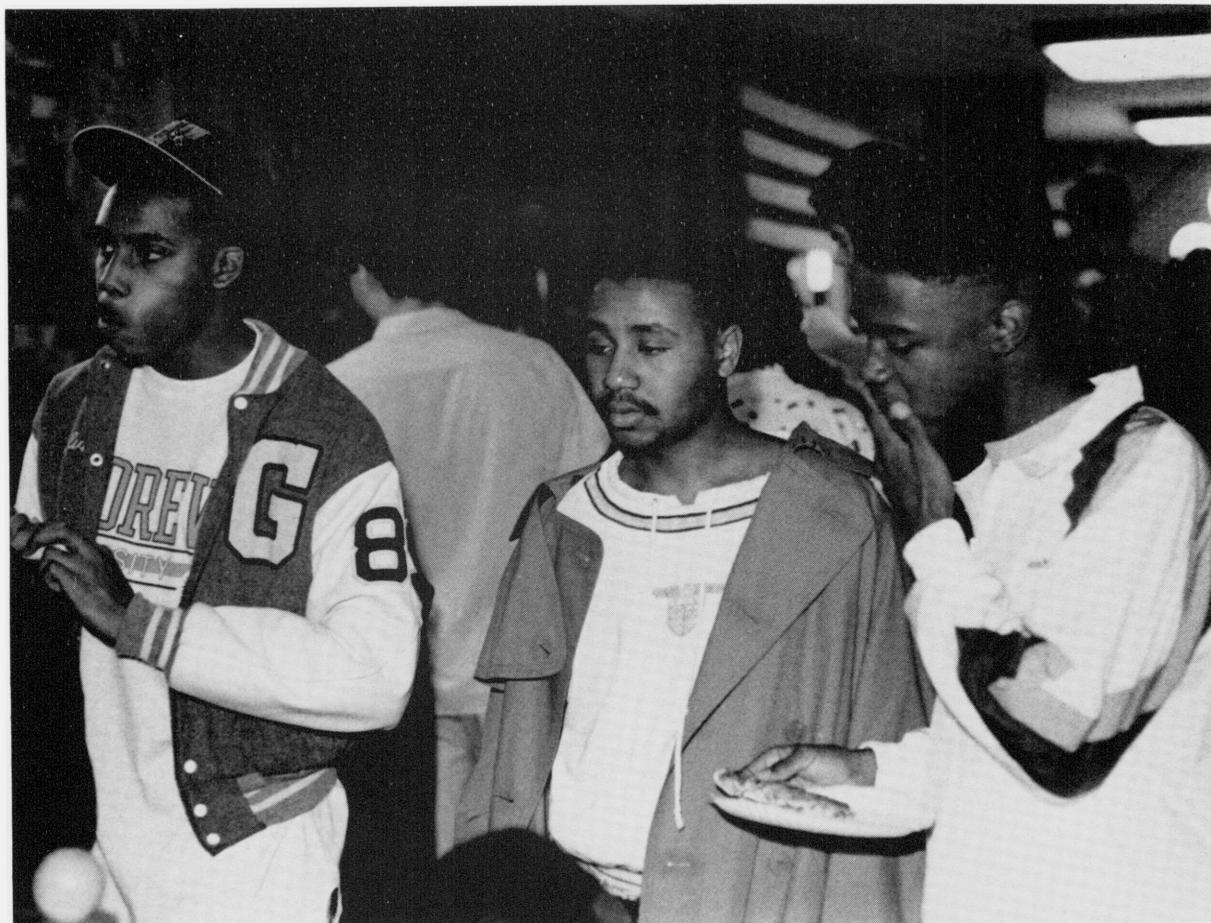

— Yvonne Terry

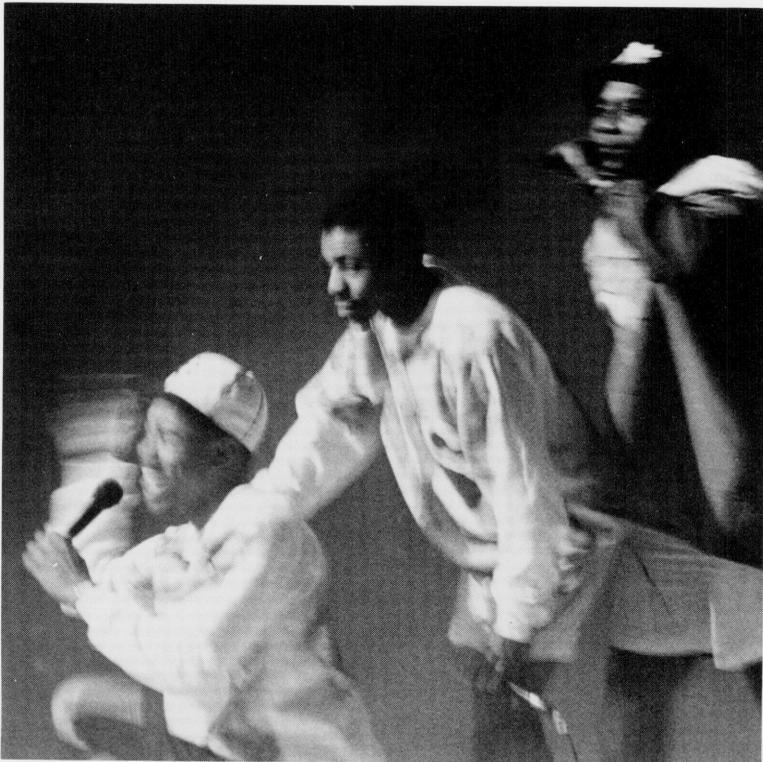

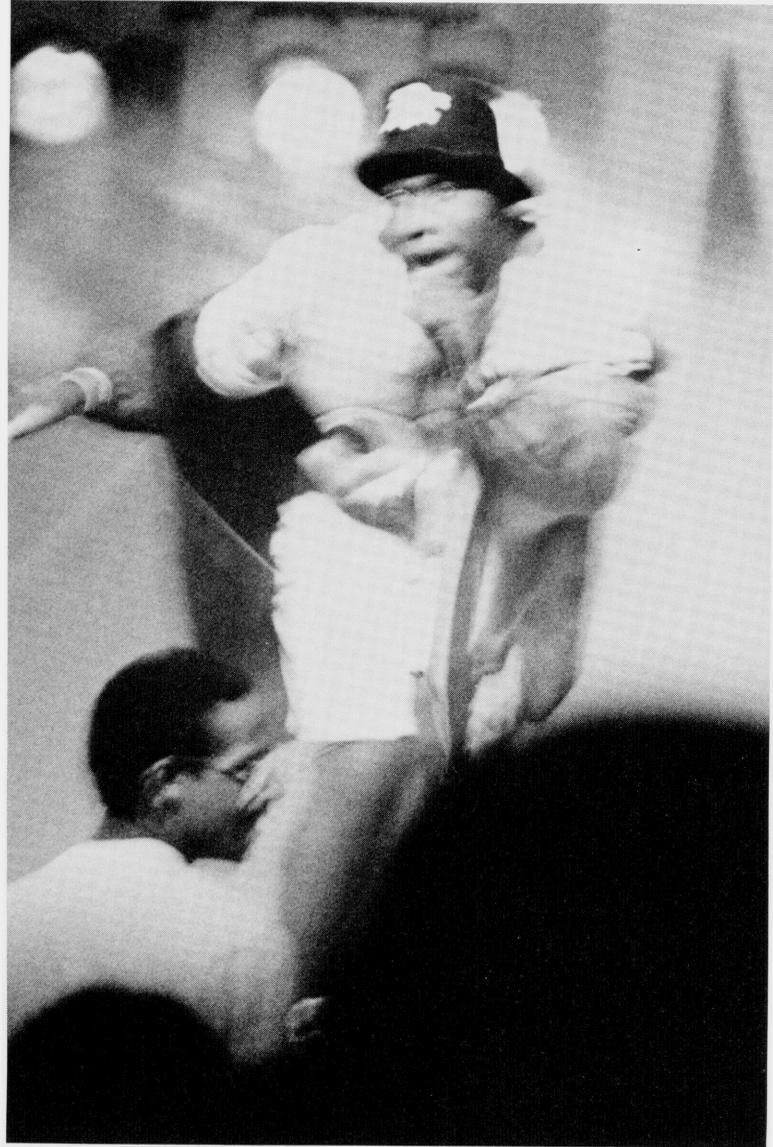

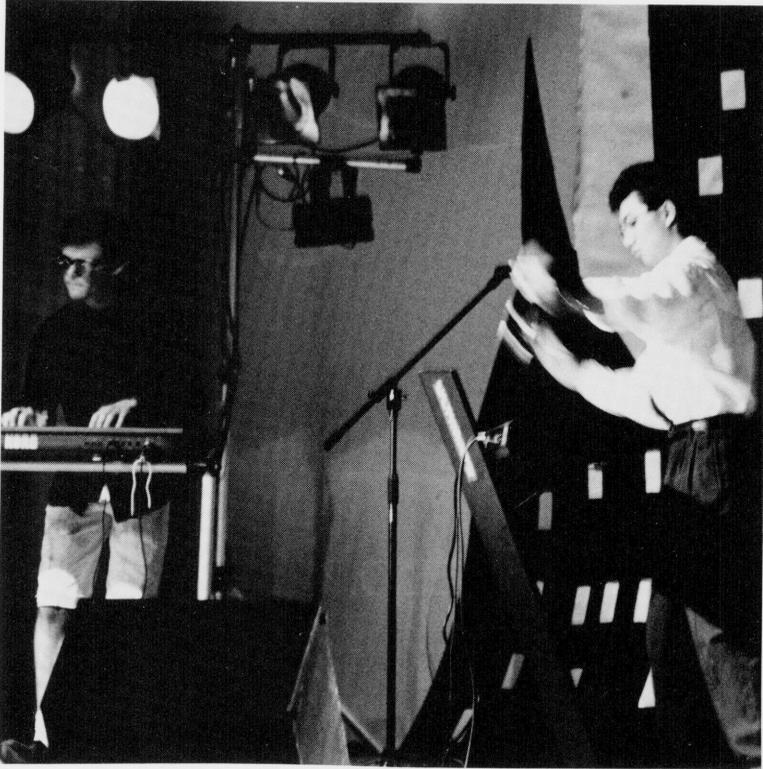

We enter chatting about any little nothing that we have in common and are seated by the jazz waiters. In the abrupt way that jazz orchestras have, this one plunges into a number. It loses no time in circumlocutions, but gets right down to business. It constricts the thorax and splits the heart with its tempo and narcotic harmonies. This orchestra grows rambunctious, rears on its hind legs and attacks the tonal veil with primitive fury, rending it, clawing it until it breaks through to the jungle beyond. I follow those heathen — follow them exultingly. I dance wildly inside myself; I yell within, I whoop; I shake my assegai above my head, I hurl it true to the mark yeeeeooww! I am in the jungle and living in the jungle way. My face is painted red and yellow and my body is painted blue. My pulse is throbbing like a war drum. I want to slaughter something — give pain, give death to what, I do not know. But the piece ends. The men of the orchestra wipe their lips and rest their fingers. I creep back slowly to the veneer we call civilization with the last tone and find the white friend sitting motionless in his seat smoking calmly.

“Good music they have here,” he remarks, drumming the table with his fingertips.

Music, The great blobs of purple and red emotion have not touched him. He has only heard what I felt.

— Zora Neale Hurston, “How It Feels to Be Colored Me”

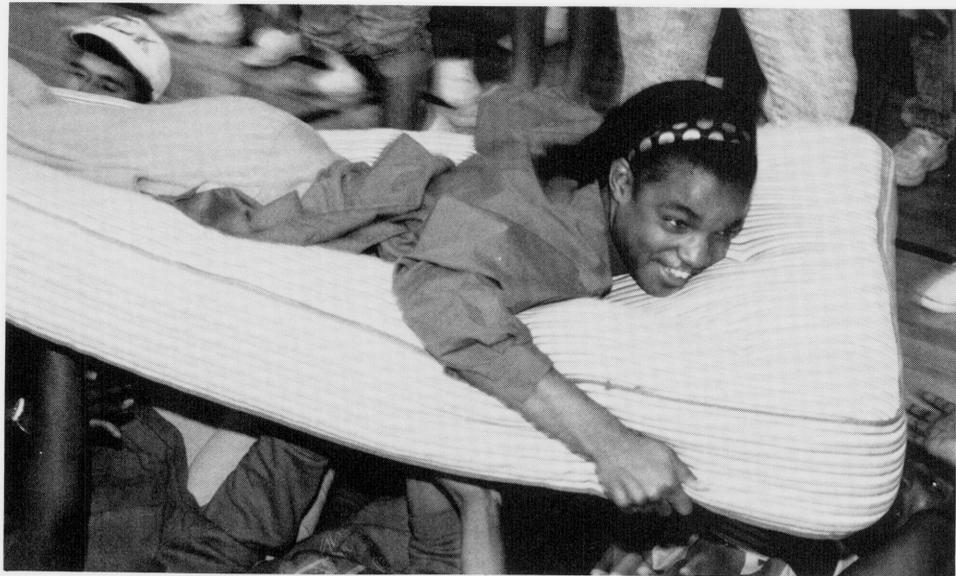

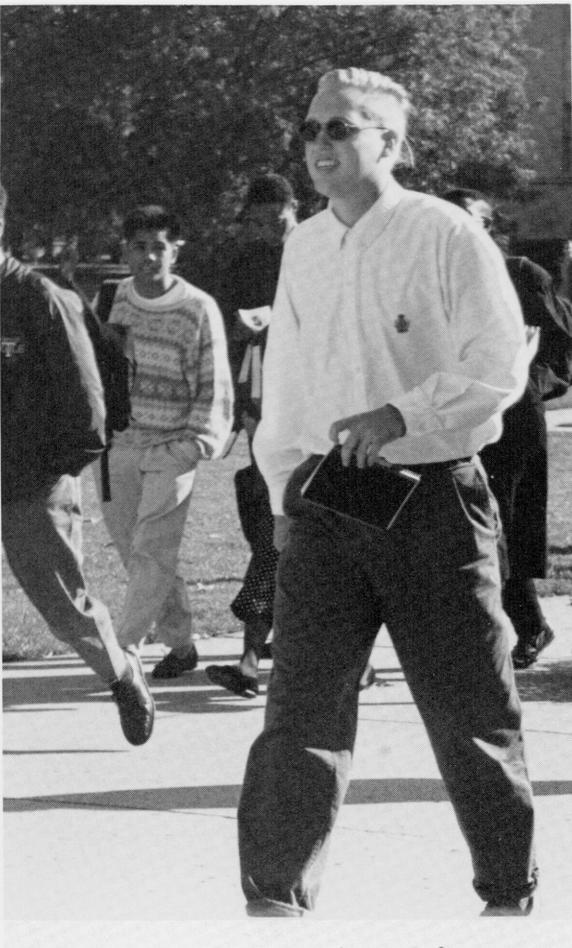

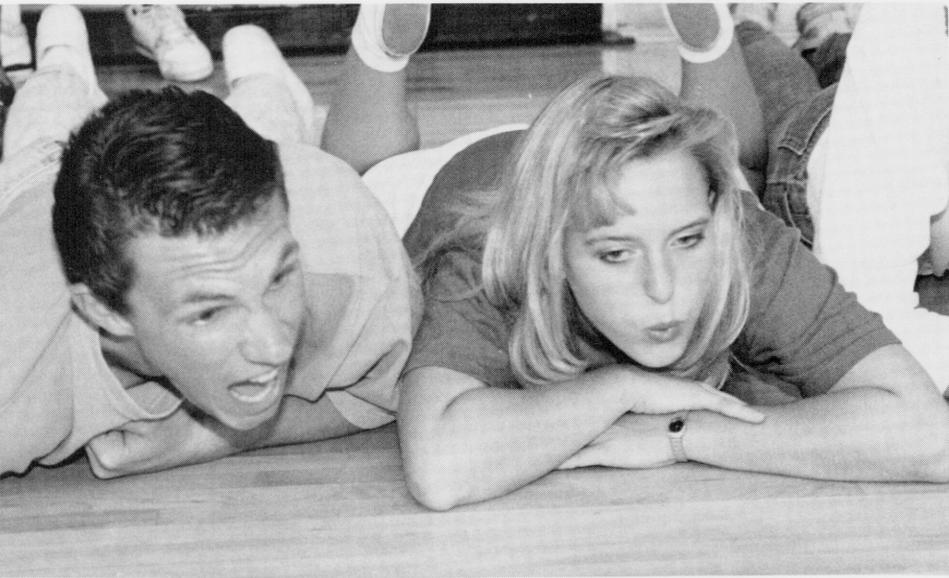

Let every American Indian make it clear. We are not interested in being made over as White Men or White Women. Nor of the White Race. We are what we are. Being Indians and members of the American Nation. And as Citizens we are seeking Justice within the law of our American Nation.

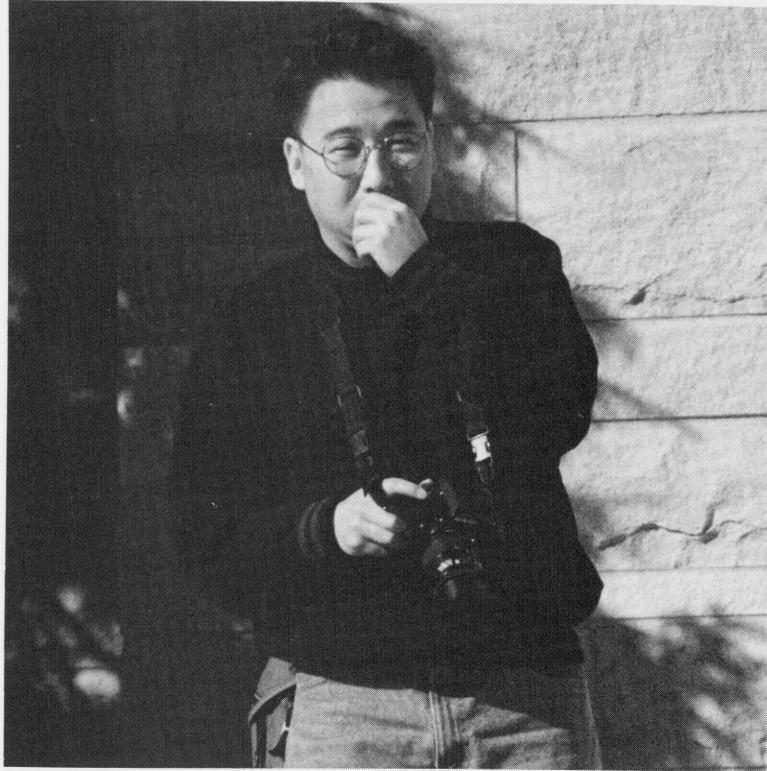

We are passing through a difficult cycle . . .

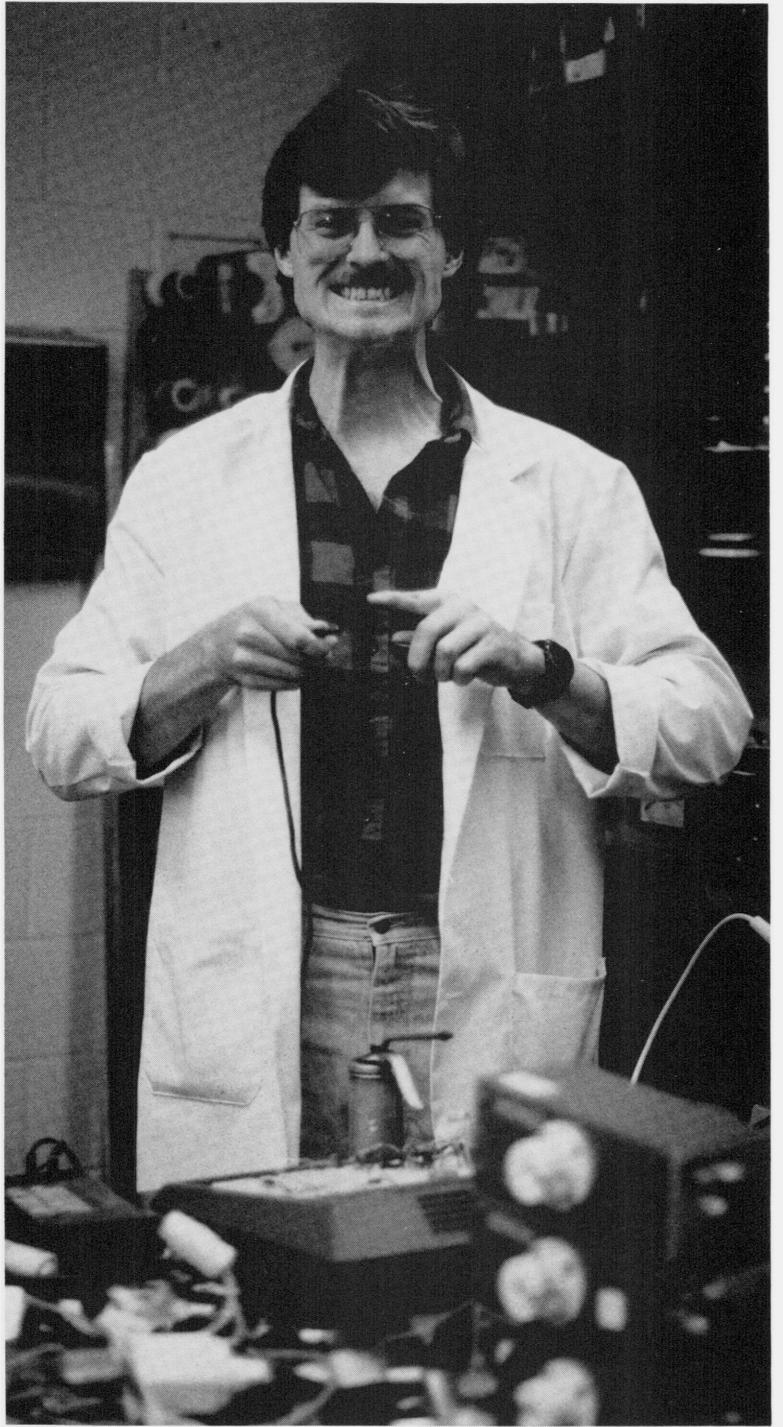

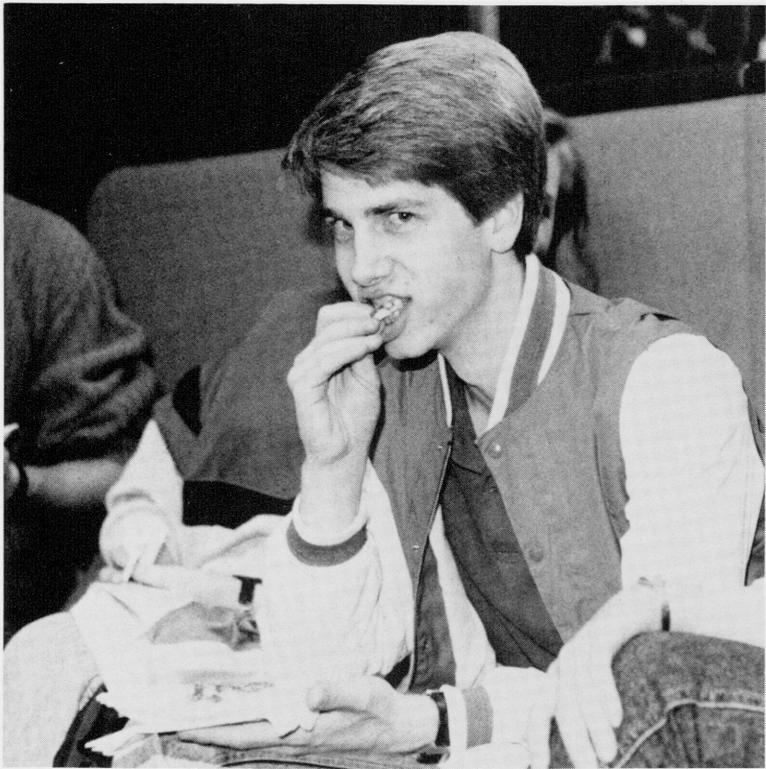

— WaWa Calachaw Bonita Nuñez, “Spirit Woman”

All translation is only a somewhat provisional way of coming to terms with the foreignness of languages.

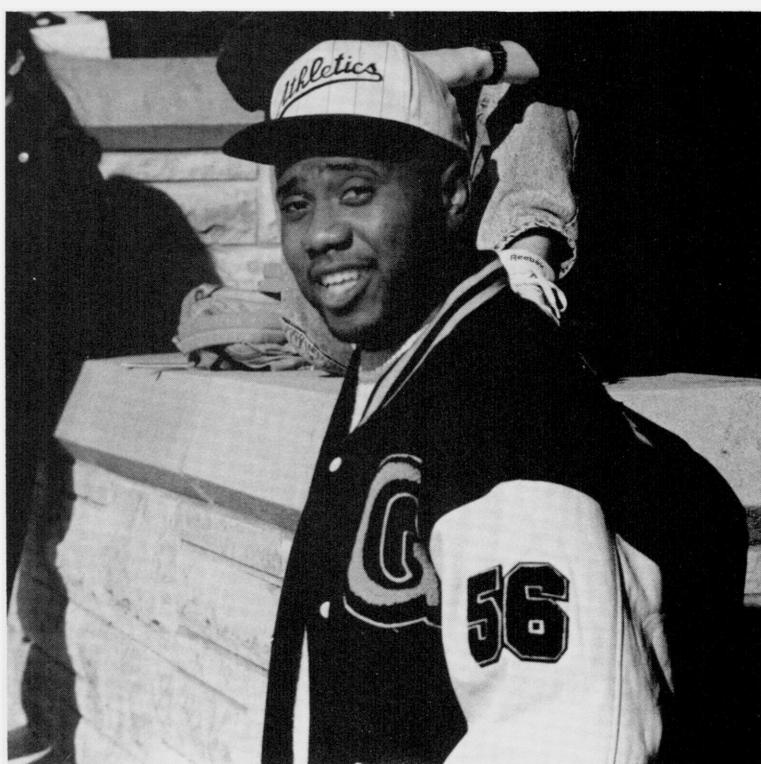

— Walter Benjamin, “The Task of the Translator”

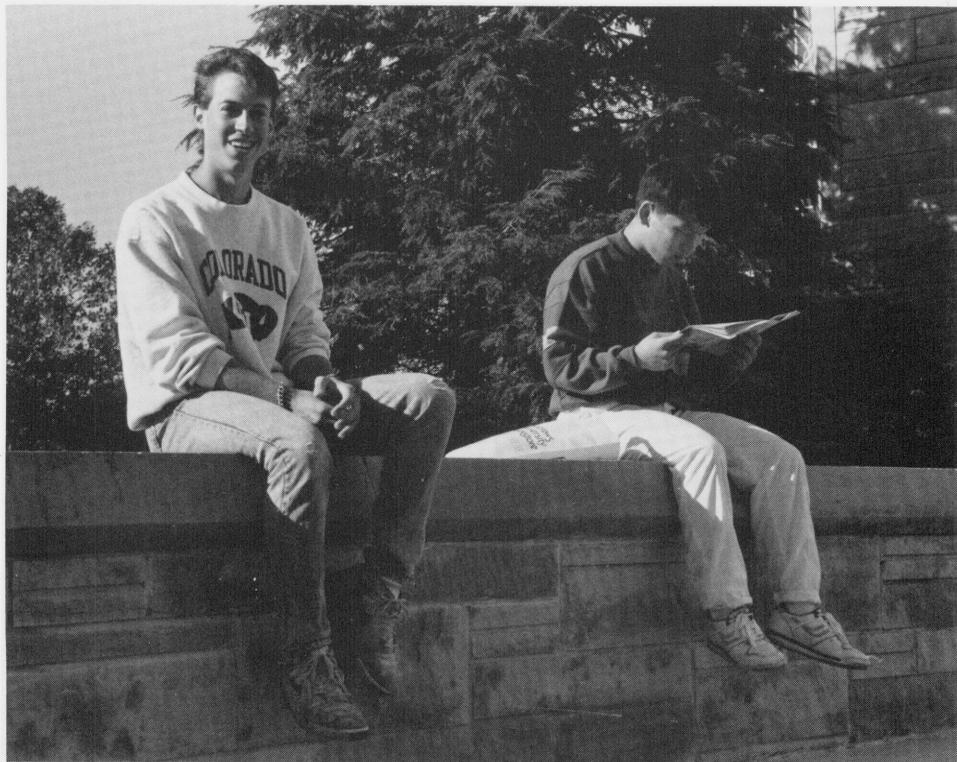

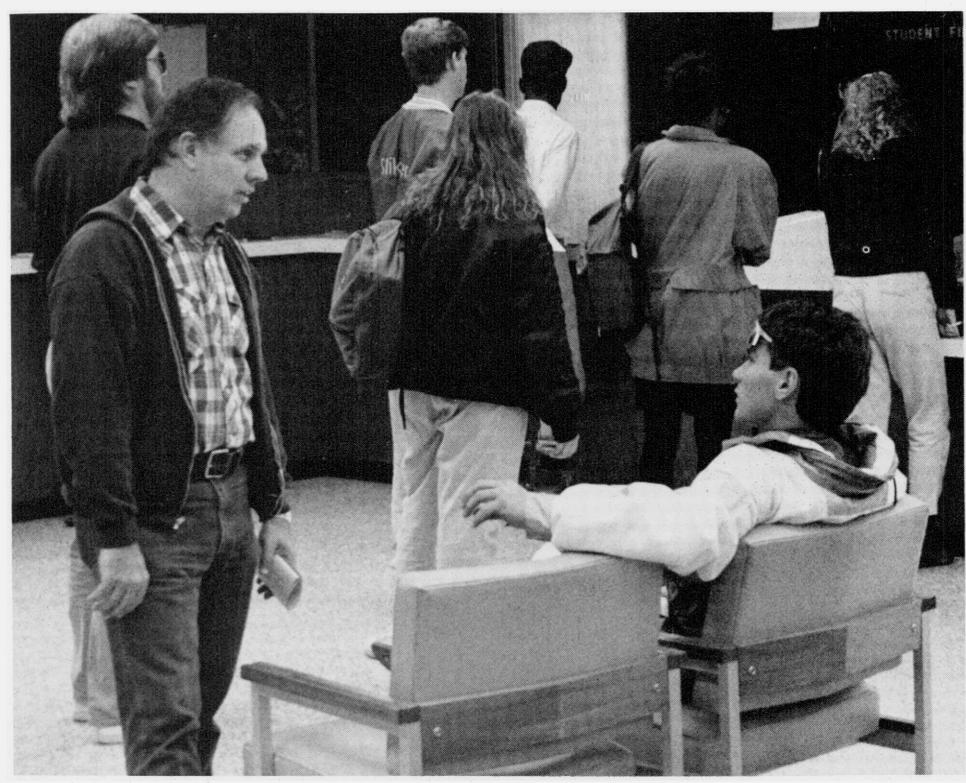

What is translation? On a platter
A poet's pale and glaring head,
A parrot's screech, a monkey's chatter,
And profanation of the dead.

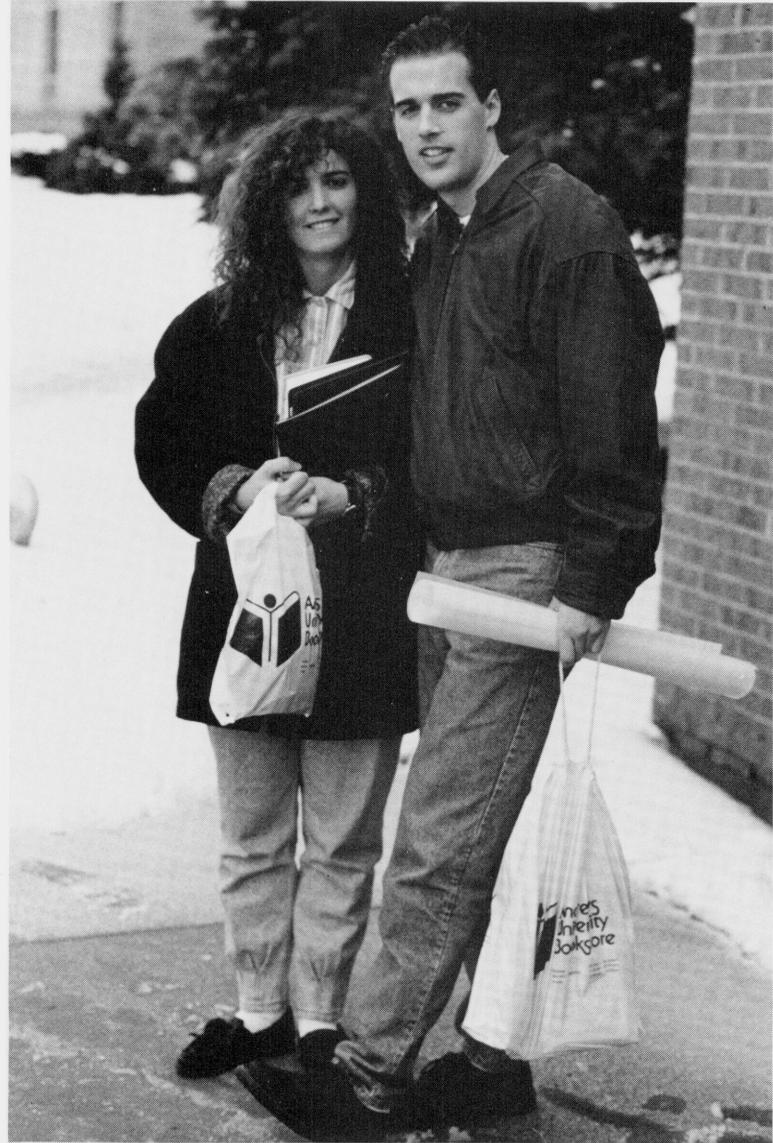

— Vladimir Nabokov, “On Translating ‘Eugene Onegin’ ”

Pied Beauty

In Joseph Conrad's novels, the ship at sea, with its diversified community of mutually dependent sailors, often stands for a microcosm of the world. I like to think that in this unlikely corner of Southwestern Michigan, Andrews University has a microcosm of its own — sailing toward a happier fate than Conrad imagined.

Nigerians, Swedes, Argentineans, Australians, Malaysians, Canadians, Coloradoans and Floridians, have all found their way up or down US 31-33 to this one spot. Soccer players, cricket players, hockey players, badminton, basketball and volleyball players, all practice their skills on campus — as those who schedule Johnson Gym know all too well. A Korean church, a Spanish church, a Village church, a college church, an All Nations church, are needed to minister to every kindred, tongue, and people. The shades of skin are often sufficient to confound the produces of the Cast and/or Cardinal. The odors? — oh, don't forget the odors: exotic foods, methods of cooking, different conceptions about deodorant and perfume — Andrews provides a connoisseur's plenitude for nose and palate. The accents, the figures of speech, the modes of greeting, of dress, of personal distance, of theological and political perspective: the rays go out in every direction.

No doubt this variety — the ever-present sense of otherness and difference — causes more or less anxiety and tension in all of us. But this difference is really one of my favorite things about Andrews. As Gerard Manley Hopkins writes, in his poem "Pied Beauty," "Glory be to God for . . ."

All things counter, original, spare, strange;
Whatever is fickle, freckled (who knows how?)
With swift, slow; sweet, sour; adazzle, dim;
He fathers-forth whose beauty is past change:
Praise him.

— Scott Moncrieff

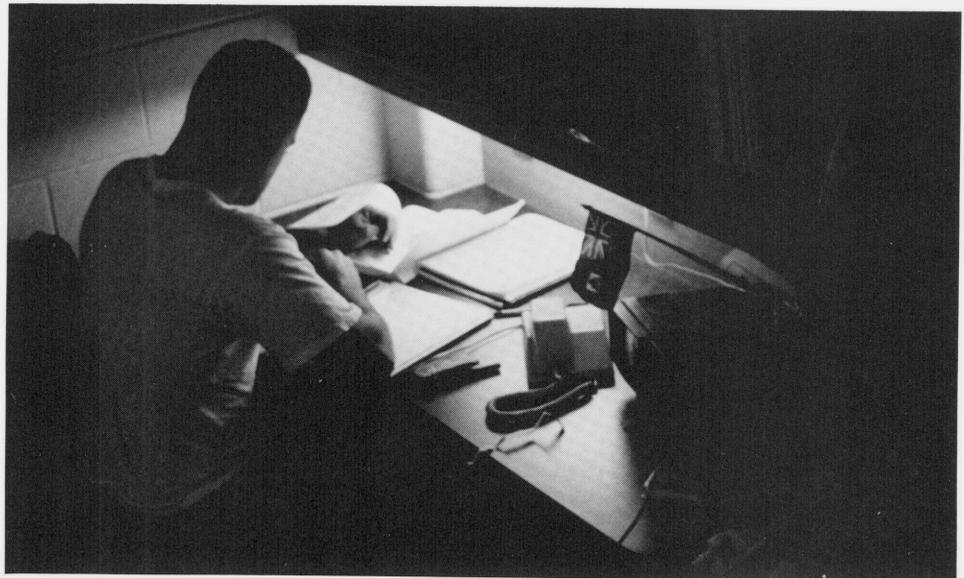

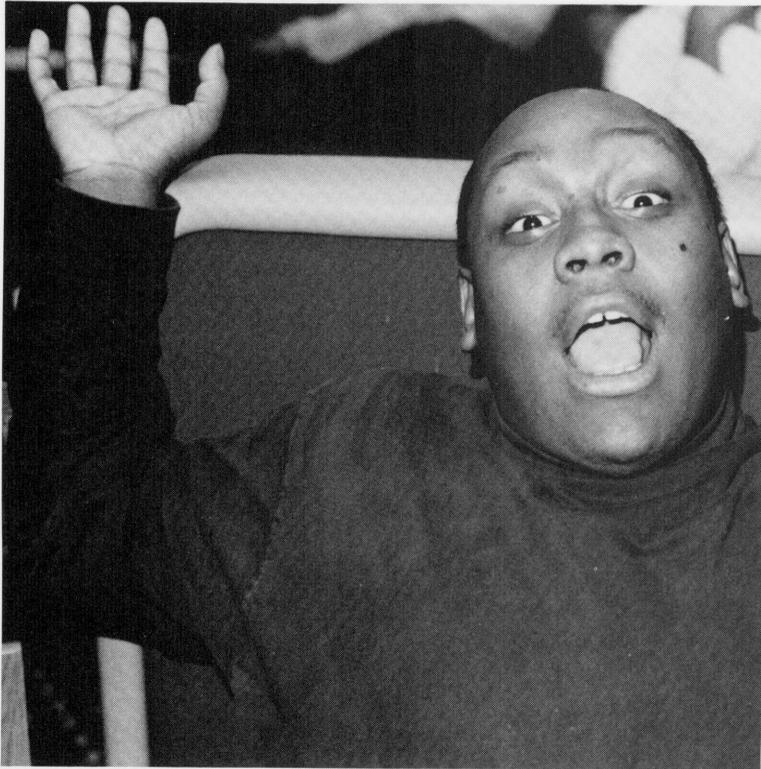

III. Psalmodie de l'Ubiquité par Amour: Dieu présent en toutes choses (Psalm tone of Omnipresence through Love: God's Presence in all things)

Complete, omnipresent,
Complete in each place,
Giving existence to each place,
To each thing which occupies a place,
to you the successive is simultaneous,
In these spaces and ages
    which Thou hast created,
Satellites of Thy Mercy.
Seal Thyself upon
    my heart.
Age of man and of the planet,
Age of the mountain and of the insect,
Bouquet of laughter for the blackbirds
    and swallows,
Moonbeam on fuchsia,
On balsamine, on begonias;
From the depths a crest arises,
The mountain springs like a ewe
And becomes a great ocean.
Present, Thou art present.
Grave Thy name upon my blood.
In Arcturus' motion, present,
In the rainbow of one wing after another
(Blind ring around Saturn),
In the Secret recesses of my body,
    present,
In the blood which nourishes my veins,
In Thy saints through grace, present . . .
Thou hidest Thyself within Thy Host,
Silent brother of the Eucharist Flower,
That I may remain with Thee,
    like a wing in the sun,
Toward the resurrection
    of the Day of Judgement.
Your love is stronger than death.
Envelop me in Thy tenderness.
Yellow-violet vision,

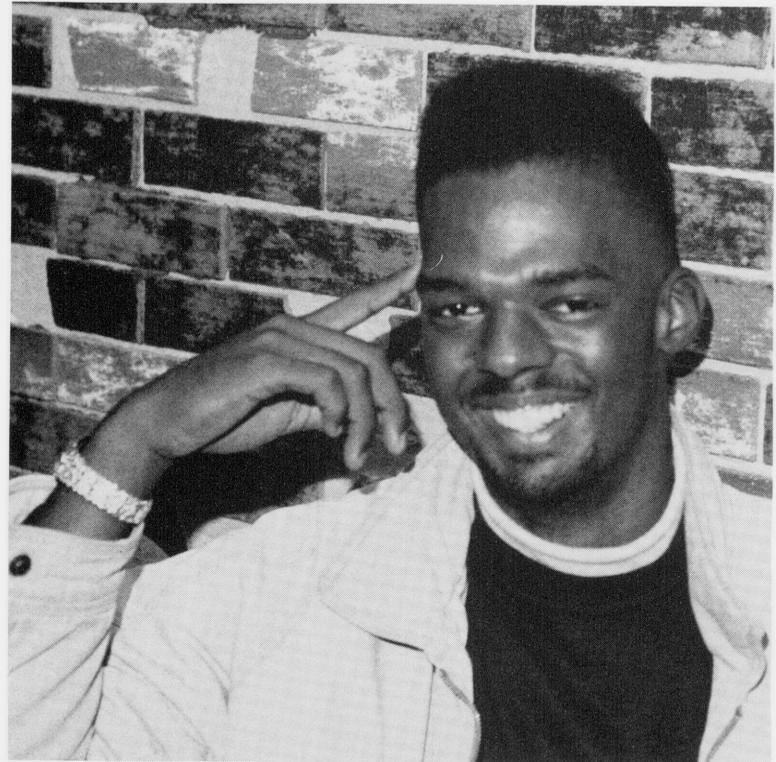

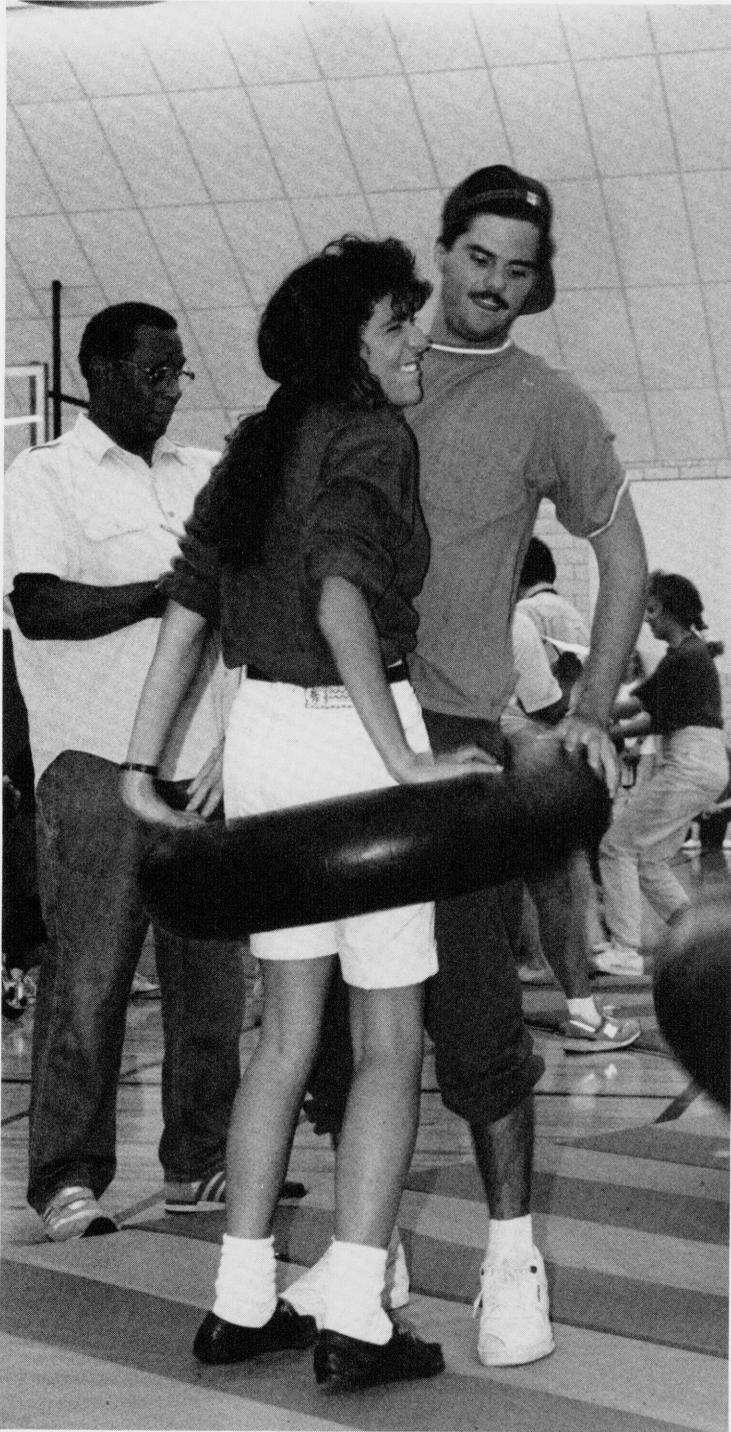

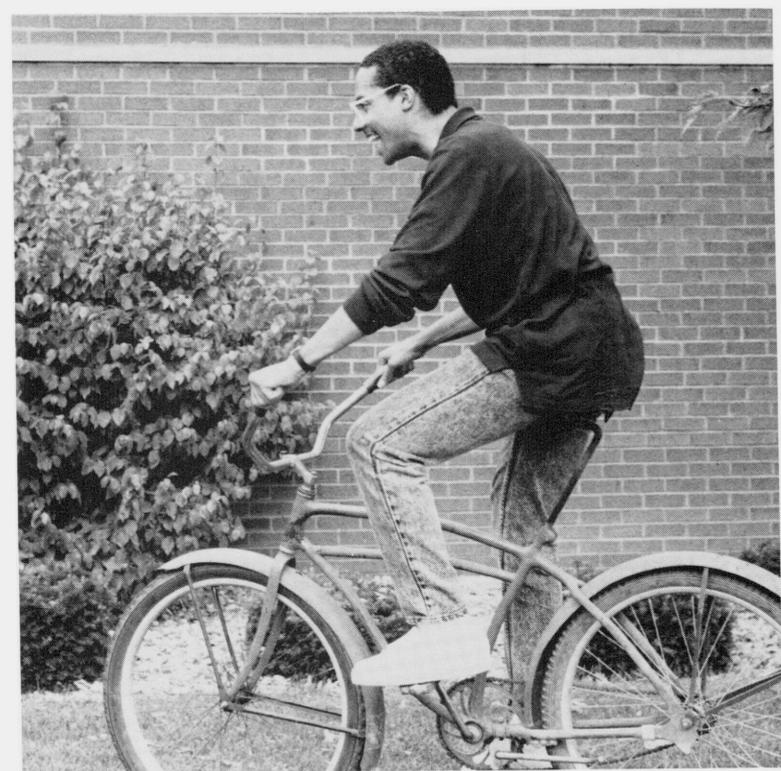

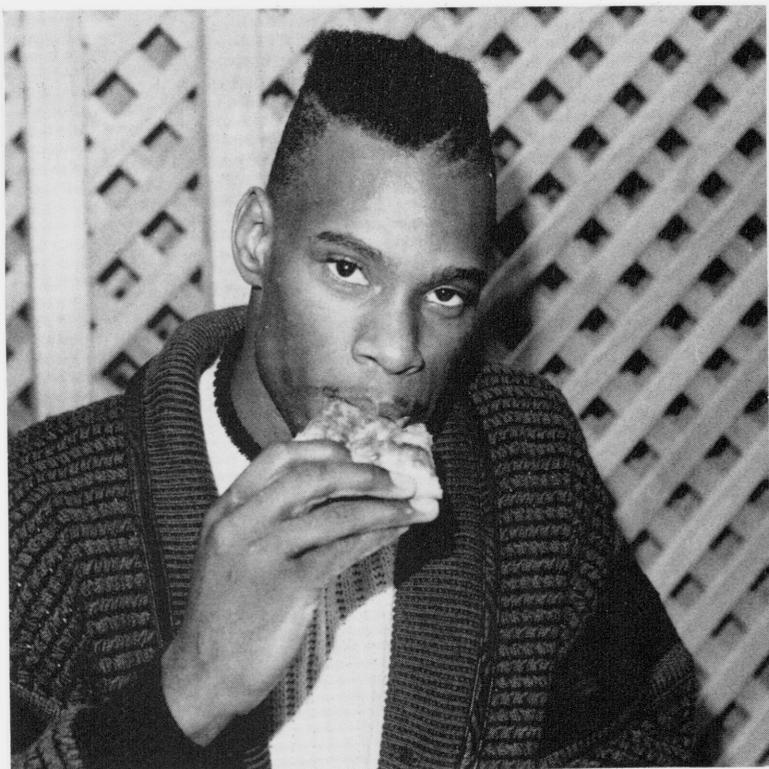

White veil, subtlety,
Orange-blue, strength and joy,
Celestial arrow, agility,
Give me the flower and the foliage
of Thy Love,
Flaming leaf of gold, burst of light.
Let tongues be silent, words be still,
Let prophets be dumb, let science be mute
(It is the affirmation of hope Melodious silence of Eternity.)
But the vestment washed in the blood of the Lamb,
But the snowy rock,
newly named,
The fanning patterns
of light,
And the rainbow bridge of Truth.
But the gate that speaks and the sun
that opens,
But the aureole that transforms
and delivers,
And the indelible golden script on
the book;
But the face to face and Love.
Thou who speakest within us,
Thou who art silent within us,
And who keepest silence in Thy Love —
Thou art near, Thou art far,
Thou art light and darkness,
Thou art so complicated and so simple.
Thou art infinitely simple.
Thou art the rainbow of Love,
The only Dove of Eternity thou art!
Slowly they take their places,
The sounding depths —
Seal Thyself upon
my heart.

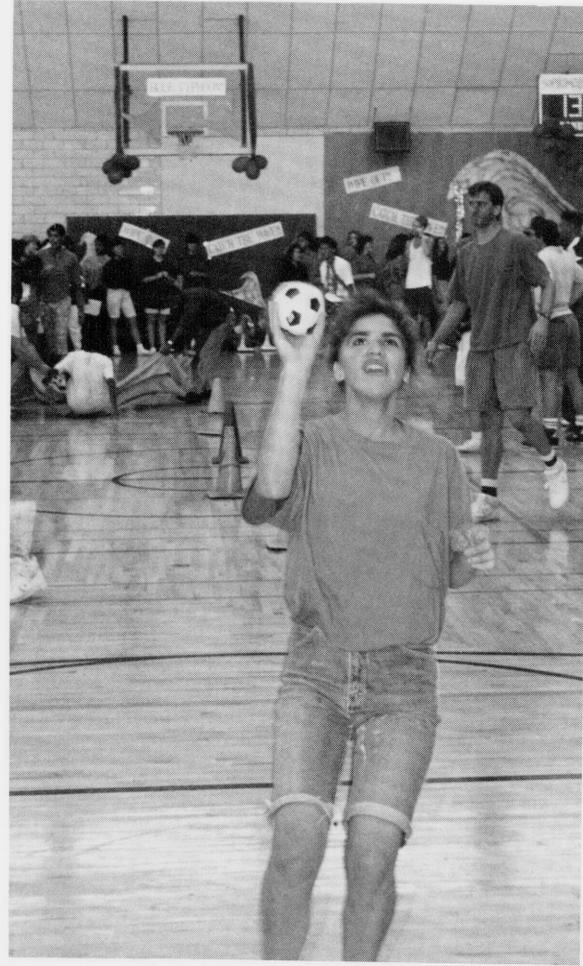

— Oliver Messiaen, “Trois Petites Liturgies de la Présence Divine”

During the undergraduate years time demanded from us commitment to the academic, religious and social. Now in our graduate years, time demands more of us and yet offers the same 24 hours for the additional demands of work and/or family. Although the undergraduate years may have demanded time for work it is certainly nothing compared to that of the graduate years. Several graduates work full-time while taking a full course load, often such extensive hours of work are required for perhaps, a matrimonial union of which there were several this year, including that of our own dear president to one of last year's GSA officers (nothing like keeping it in the family!)

Despite these numerous demands made on graduates many have contributed to the spirit of graduate study by supporting the Graduate Student Association functions. The GSA team of 1990/91 believed that this year should be a year that the graduates would be able to look back upon with fond memories. The winning of the prize for the best banner at 'Almost Anything Goes' was a fulfillment of the president's words (Bruce Banner), who had repeatedly told us that it would be a 'Banner' year. Unfortunately despite Bruce's ability to prophesy and his seminarian status he failed to be regarded as a prophet.

1990/91 has taken us from the inauguration dinner, through Fall Fest, socials, potlucks (which in some cases, really was a matter of luck!), vespers, worships and much more — to the June of Graduation.

I walk along my windowsill, stepping over the geraniums, looking for myself in the holy book of names (where if not phonetically described one does not exist), and come upon a mistake of the publishing community: I have been misspelled.

I have three names in my one, and I shall go on to name myself to you so that you, also, may see the error of the scribes.

My root name, the one that unites me in the earth and drinks deeply from that cthonic cupped hand, is this:

MINE

— which, as you already see, is a curious in-spelling of

IN ME.

My root is within my self. Of course, you say, that is an obvious thing. I smile with you, and am released from all my pretenses of attempting to name you. I realize that for so long I have been thought to do this impossible thing that you and I both find it a hard sounding to say the correct in-spelling — it is a word that we were never taught.

My right name speaks still with my root; in fact, they share a symbol:

EST.

This the scribes would christen a misplaced superlative; I speak of it as the empowerment of my root. Through it I find my way to the deepest center of IN ME; I can stand without being afraid of what I might find there or where it looks out on the beautiful, mythic OTHER of the world.

My root and right stand so closely together for a purpose, for my left is a confusing and hard sounding, coming as it does from the first elements of the earth:

Fe.

Iron of me is tempered in steel; created from mind dreams when wrought, and known for its strength and power in its rule through the rod. My first-seen left is also known as the last and worst seen age of the world, and I am torn with toil and degeneracy in the division of named time.

I am so broad, and deep, and vast — I myself do not know what feeds below my surface. Yet, I stretch and quiver with the struggle and summon the swirling forces together to make the sound speak my naming of my soul.

So now you must understand, too, as I see you begin to pace your windowsill, why it so strange, the scribes misspelling of my right. They would name me to the world only as one who practices a given sound, a sound that denotes a 'theory' or a 'cult' as they call it (and who established this before-going practice?); as if I did not create my own calling!

Ah. I see we have both reached the open pane. Shall we step out then together, you and I? What is your true name, for I, as I have told you, am Feminist.

— Yvonne Terry

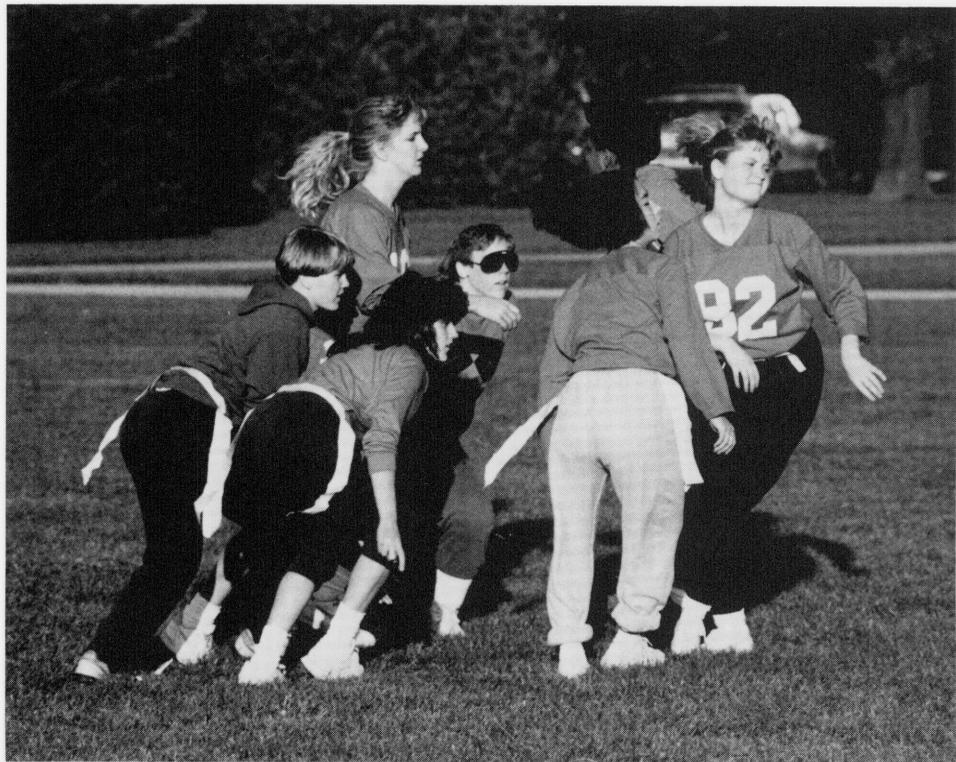

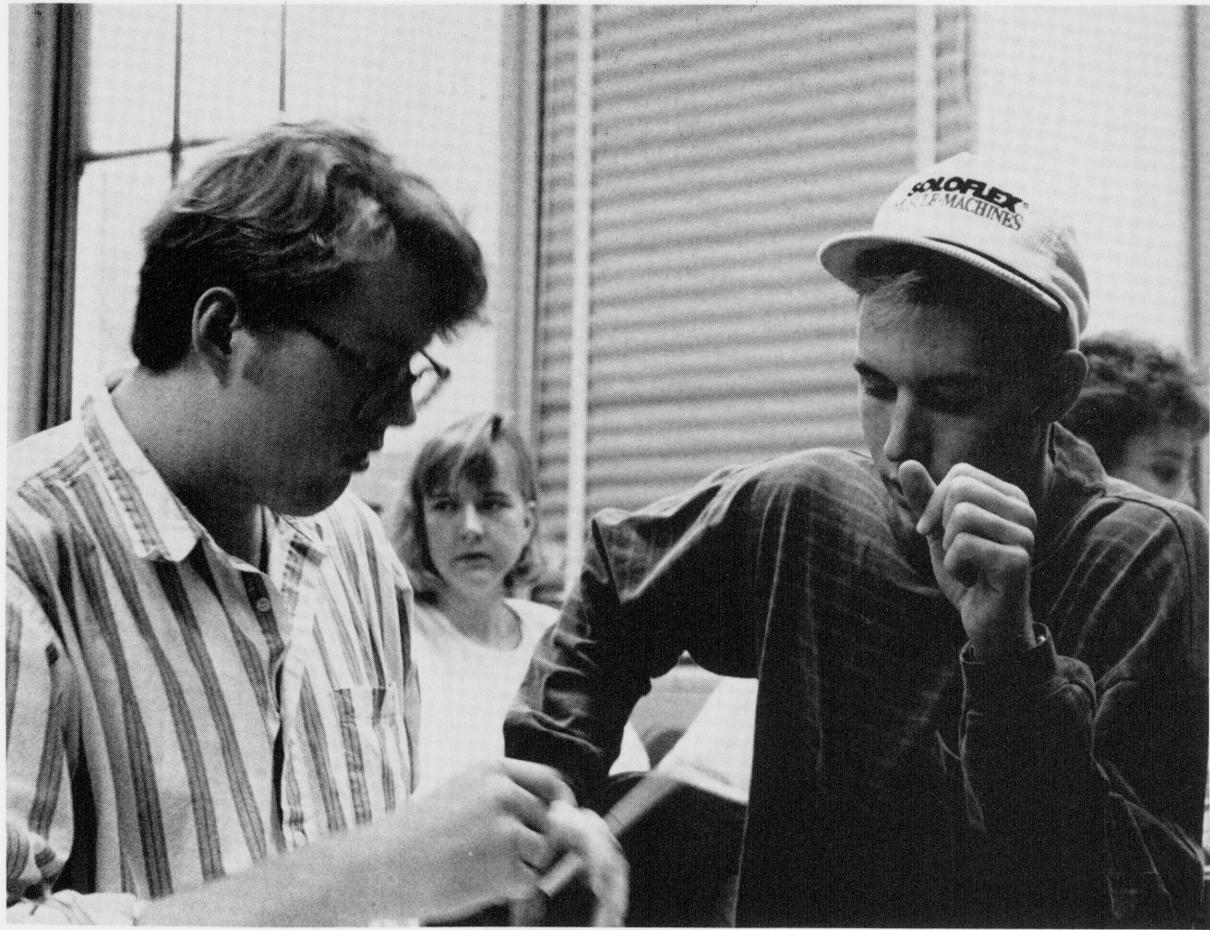

. . . among many Native American societies, there was a tradition that . . . had not two genders but four genders: a gender for men, for women, for the berdajh; that is, the male who took on the more androgynous role, and also females who took on a more masculine role.

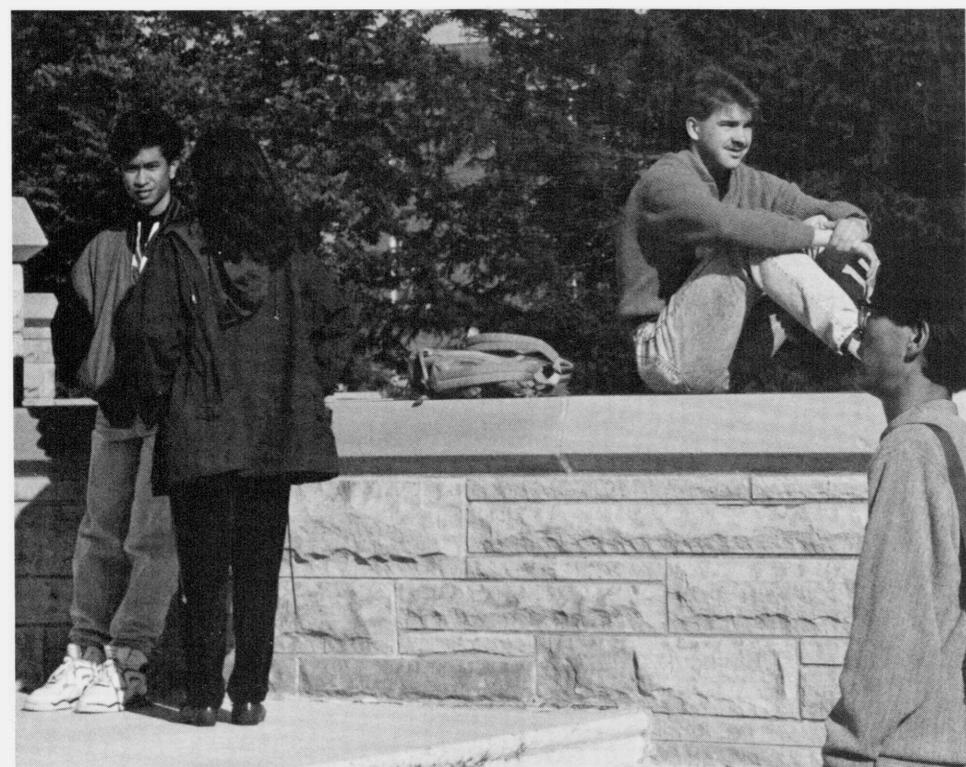

Berdajhs are also known because of their intelligence, and their creativity, and their artistic abilities, as craftspeople, as artists, singers . . . It varies from one group to another, but these are often common characteristics.

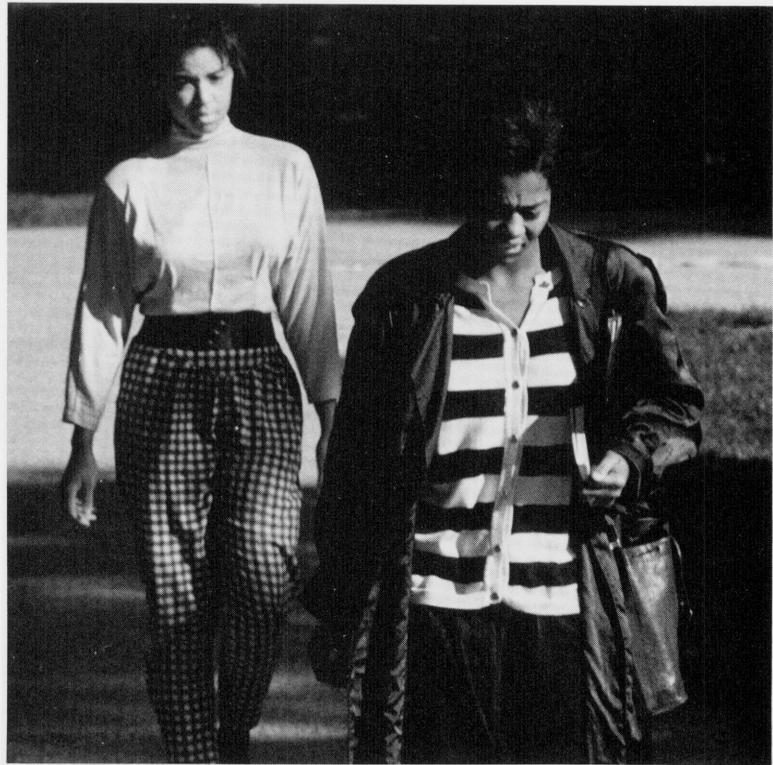

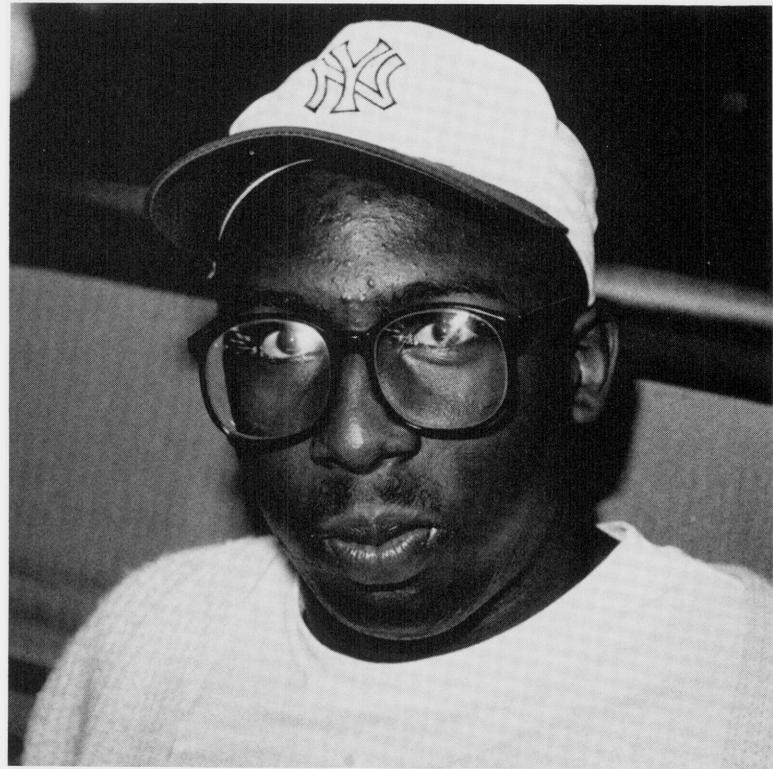

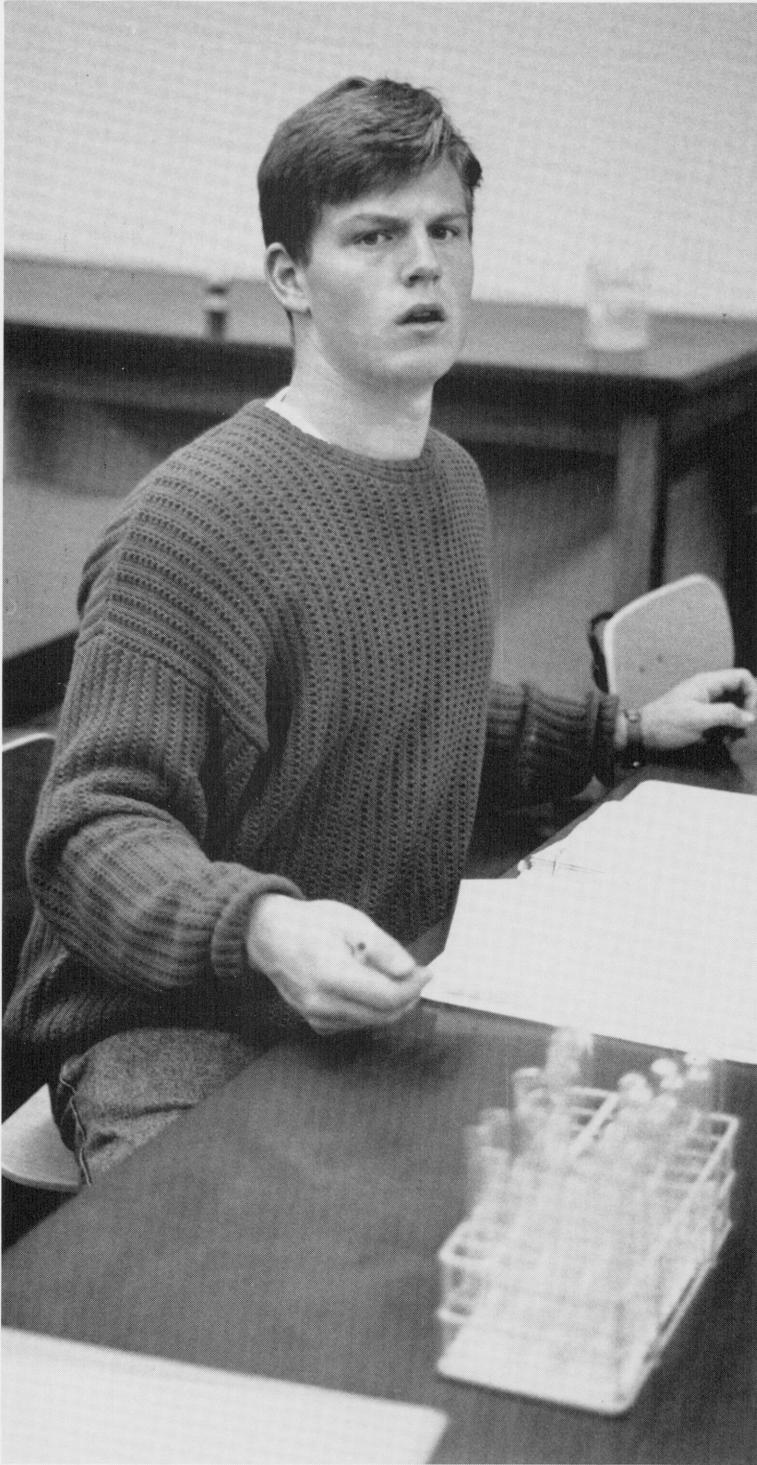

. . . In Western ideology, we don't really have a tradition that acknowledges and allows for gender diversity. Where as in a lot of other cultures, you do have that. There is more of a recognition that people differ in their gender roles, and that this is not something to be hidden or denied, but something to be valued; it's part of the spiritual order of the universe. The idea that there is a useful purpose, a useful role for everyone.

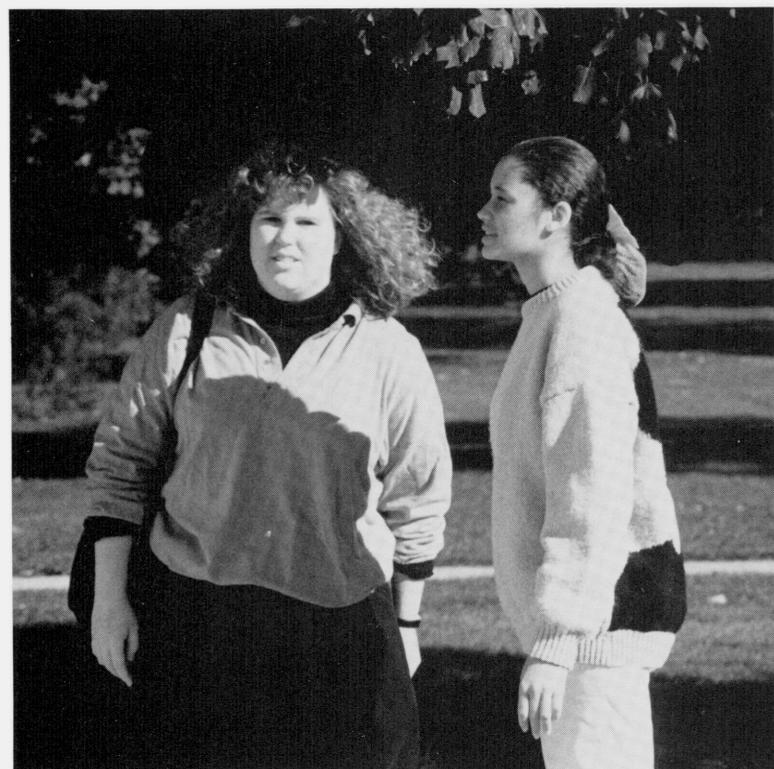

A Crow elder told me, at one point, he said, "Our society doesn't waste people the way White society does. Everyone has their gift; everyone has their contribution to make."

— Walter Williams, Anthropologist, USC

The Parable of the Old Man and the Young

So Abram rose, and clave the wood, and went,
And took the fire with him, and a knife.
And as they sojourned both of them together,
Isaac the first-born spake and said, My Father,
Behold the preparations, fire and iron,
But where the lamb for this burnt offering?
Then Abram bound the youth with belts and straps,
And builded parapets and trenches there,
And stretched forth the knife to slay his son.
When lo! an angel called him out of heaven,
Saying, Lay not thy hand upon the lad,
Neither do anything to him. Behold,
A ram, caught in a thicket by its horns;
Offer the Ram of Pride instead of him.
But the old man would not so, but slew his son,
And half the seed of Europe, one by one.
— Wilfred Owen, 1920

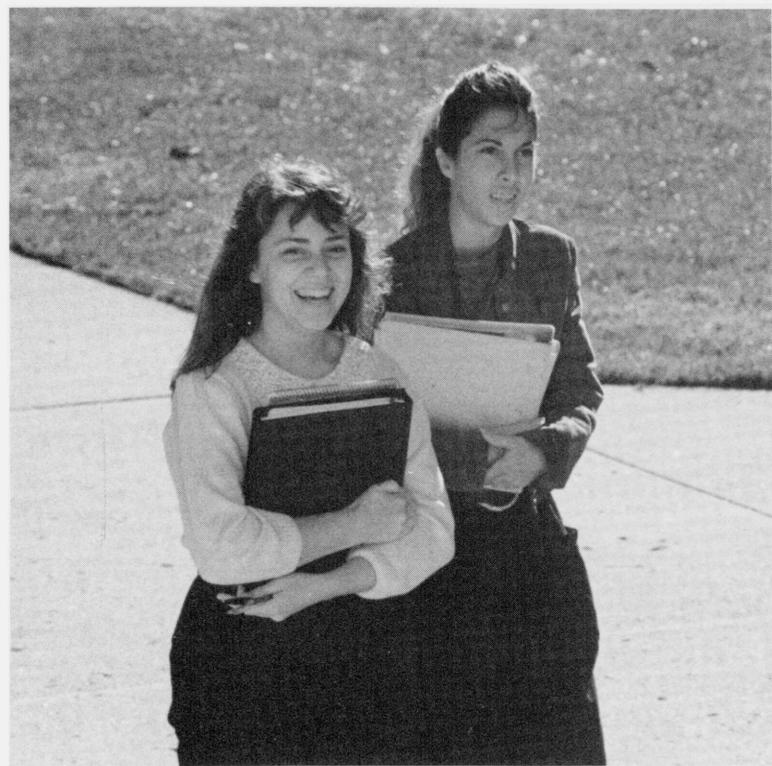

FORGETTING. “The struggle of man against power is the struggle of memory against forgetting.” That remark by Mirek, a character in The Book of Laughter and Forgetting, is often cited as the book’s message. This is because the first thing a reader recognizes in a novel is the “already known.” . . . Before it becomes a political issue, the will to forget is an anthropological one: man has always harbored the desire to rewrite his own biography, to change the past, to wipe out tracks, both his own and others’ . . . Forgetting: absolute injustice and absolute solace at the same time.

— Milan Kundera, The Art of the Novel

Part of knowing who I am is realizing what makes me different from you. Because it is important for me to find out what it means to be me, I become very good at seeing how you are different. It is difficult for me to do this neutrally and unemotionally. Frequently I collect differences and attach values to them. Swiftly and efficiently I tally up the points. Someone always comes up short. Sometimes me, sometimes you. It is sad and subconscious. I catch myself wishing how to celebrate more and calculate less.

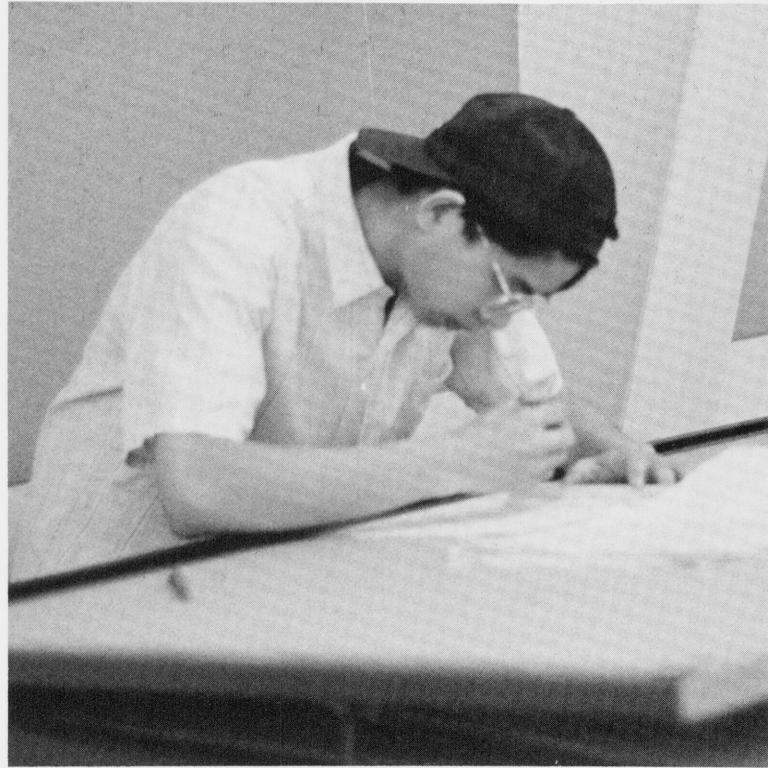

— Candace Tkachuck

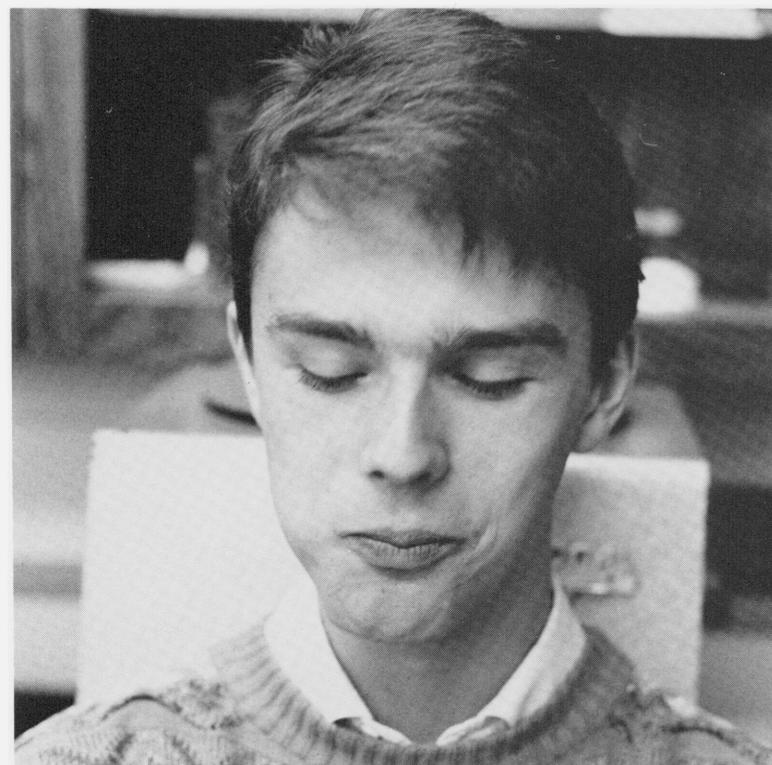

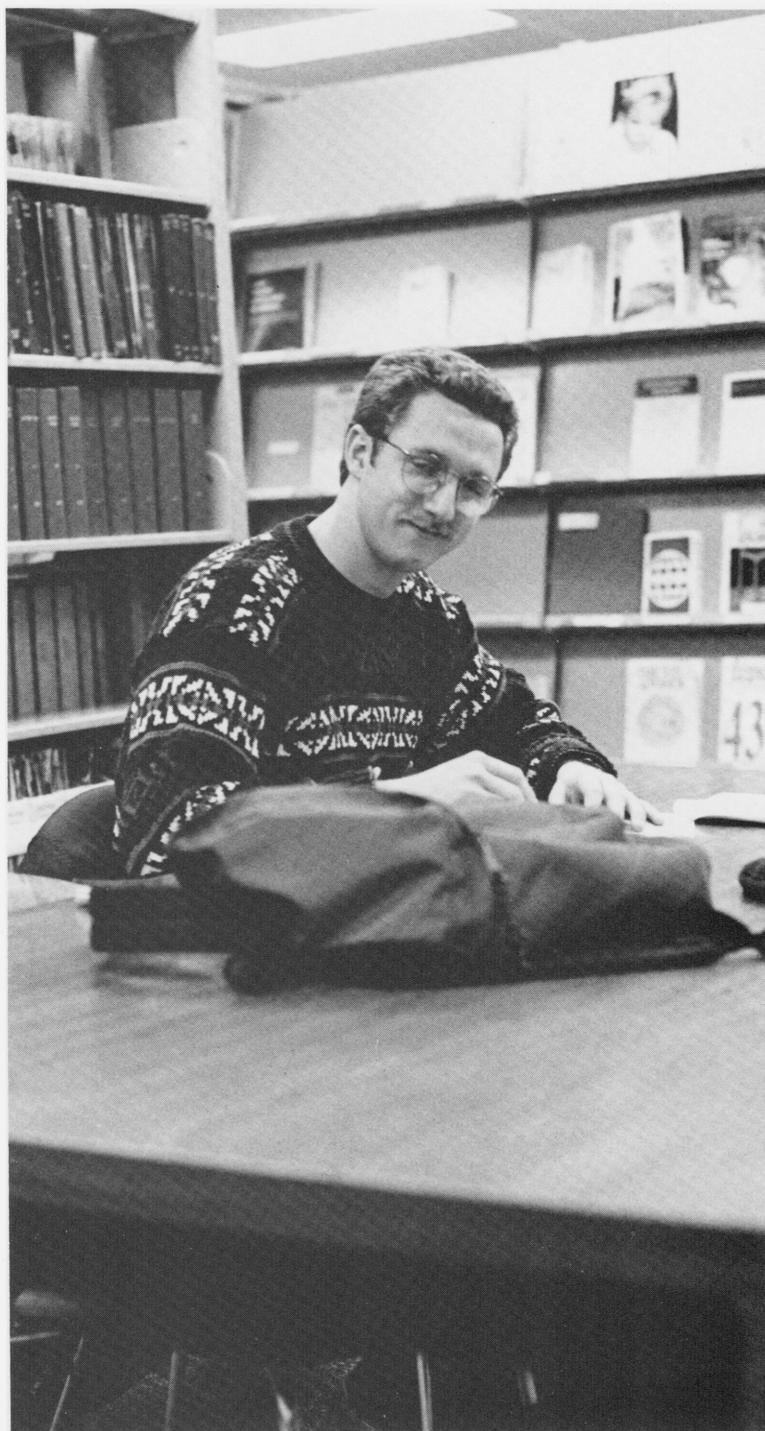

they must have slipped it in the milk
as i swam in pre-natal blindness
later i breakfasted
a mix of protein and prejudice pulled from my mother's breast

in school i learned my colors
how to count what counts
they told me that it was good to be neat
and we lined up before we came in i realize now

it is ok not to paint within the lines
not to stay in my place

— Candace Tkachuck

But more important than all of [these essentials], and perhaps a prerequisite for all of them, is the establishment of proper relations with the world, and — in particular — with other human beings, or one other human being, for it is human relations which carry the possibilities of proper being-in-the-world. Feeling the fullness of the presence of the world depends on feeling the fullness of another person as a person; reality is given to us by the reality of people; reality is taken from us by the unreality of un-people; our sense of reality, of trust, of security, is critically dependent on a human relation.

— Oliver Sacks,
Awakenings

What is so important about the differences between us?
Diversity inspires movements and protest:

WE HAVE THE RIGHT TO BE WHO WE ARE.

When anyone can see you already are the way you are.
You are black. I am white. He is yellow —

THEY are everything We are not.

It's important to be something.
Trying not to stand in the way of US and THEM.
Let the differences be important for now, then.
At least you know where you belong.

— Jennifer Coburn

Thirty spokes share the wheel's hub;
It is the center hole that makes it useful.
Shape clay into a vessel;
It is the space within that makes it useful.
Cut doors and windows for a room;
It is the holes which make it useful.
Therefore profit comes from what is there;
Usefulness from what is not there.

The Naming of Things

When the earth
How the sky
Where the mortals
There am I

In the margin
Marking home
At the parting
Not alone

In the body
Holding place
Staying center
Singing space

From the distance
Near attending
Who forgotten
Under standing.

Spare the oneness
Gather saying
Come to nearness
Rest in staying

Free the pouring
World-ness rumbles
Silence rises
Distance slumbers
Now remembers
Bringing shelter

Ring the bells
Presence dwells

Where the myth
How the meeting
When the dream
There the being.

January 16, 1991. As cold winds of winter chilled our exterior, the winds of war chilled our innermost souls. Every person in the world seemed to hold their breath in the anticipation of the unfolding events in front of them. A melancholy cloud swept through everyone's thoughts — Remembering loved ones and friends in the Desert Storm.

LT. COL. Keith Mattingly

Desert Storm. Was this a war for OIL? Was it a dislike for SAD-DAM? Who WON? As adventist's what is our stand on War? These are some questions that we will be pondering for a long time to come. Some of you may have been in support of the war, and others may have protested it. I hope that through all the likes and dislikes of this war, we will remember one thing: To be proud of the men and women who risked their lives in the service of our country.

People With A Purpose

A millionaire by 30, retired by 40—we've heard the success stories. Men and women who succeeded because they had a specific purpose in life. They had a goal and the single-mindedness to achieve that goal.

We, too, have a purpose in life, a purpose that focuses on Christ. As we stand, side by side, facing life, we have our goals and dreams ahead of us. And, as we see others passing by, we realize that by reaching out, we can touch their lives. As you encounter the people represented by the names and faces in this book, may your purpose be to influence their lives for the good. And may we all be known as a People with a Purpose.
