Movie on the Life of Dr. Eva E. Dykes

The movie rights to the life story of Eva B Dykes, the first African-American woman to complete the requirements for a PhD, have been acquired by Stan Jensen and Gregory Crosby. Crosby is a third Generation film maker and eldest Grandson of the late Bing Crosby. Jensen is a Communication Director for the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Dr. Dykes, though short in stature, pioneered the way and continually pressed forward against all odds in this giant step towards recognizing the intellectually capability of females with an African Heritage. "This little known story of an Adventist Hero" said Jensen "is one of many examples of Black Adventists who have made a significant difference. These need to be told by Hollywood"

Jensen and Crosby are negotiating with a major 'Hollywood' studio, and are eager to mount this project with in the next months.
